Look Loses Bid to Block JFK Book in Germany

HAMBURG, Germany, Jan. 19 (AP)—A local court has refused an application by Look Magazine for a temporary injunction against the German magazine Der Stern over serialization of the book, "The Death of a President," a court official said today.

Look applied for the injunction last night and requested it be granted without an oral hearing from Der Stern representatives, a spokesman for Der Stern said. The court refused the application on these grounds, he added.

A separate suit by Look for damages, claiming breach of contract by Der Stern, is due to be heard here Friday.

Look claims that Der Stern published "unlicensed and unauthorized" material in serializing William Manchester's book about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.
